

Dear Video Participant:

Thank you for agreeing to participate in the creation of Augsburg Fortress Video Clips. Your appearance in these videos may be featured, in whole or in part, in various ways, including possible videos in the Augsburg Fortress product line. These videotaped segments may also be featured as streaming video clips on an Augsburg Fortress website for subscription members or online guests to view. They may additionally be made available as downloads or in DVD form.

This release is to obtain your permission for us to include your videotaped performance and any photos of you in our publications, websites, and other material and media. We ask that you release and waive any interest, including copyright, that you may have in any video segment or photographs made of you during the taping. In doing so, you give Augsburg Fortress, or anyone else we may authorize, the right to reproduce, publish, sell, license, and otherwise use the videotaped segment and any photos in any format and in any media.

You waive any right to inspect or approve the edited video or photos as they are to be used. In giving this consent, you release us from liability from any infringement of any personal or property right that you may have in the reproduction, publication, sale, or other use of the video interview or photos. Your name will not be used with the video or photos, and no payment will be made to you for these uses.

If you have any questions about this project, please contact Logan Wang at Augsburg Fortress (800-426-0115, ext. 453; or logan.wang@augzburgfortress.org) for more information. Thank you for allowing us to include you in our video clip(s).

I agree to give my consent and release as described above.
